Krystal's First Mistake

As the sun was rising, Krystal Snow was walking to school wearing a bow tie, a pink shirt and a skirt. She was also wearing a big smile on her face. Today, her class had a math test on volume. Krystal loves tests. She had always gotten a perfect percentage on every test since kindergarten. "I am so excited!" Krystal thought. "Hey, Krystal!" Her friend Morgan called, cutting through the thought. Krystal skipped over to Morgan. "I am so excited for the test. I know I'll get a good grade." "Did you study for it?" Morgan asked. "Nah, I don't need to." "Smarty-pants." Kelly said to her friend. They both laugh. Krystal gives them the death look and entered her classroom.

Mrs. Robin calls the class to sit down and get a testing folder. Then Krystal sat down and started to work on the test. In half an hour everyone handed their tests in and went to recess.
